There was a heavy run of cattle with the market steady to higher, with best native beef type bringing $10 to $10.50; medium, $8 to $9, and common, $7.50 to $8.50. It was announced here this week that Bernard Scott and Thurman Lanier had bought out Cecil W. Taylor's taxi business and are now operating from their location next to the Jockey hotel.

NEGROES TO PRESENT "I, TOO, AM AN AMERICAN"

A program which will have for its theme, "I, Too, Am An American" is to be presented at the Statesboro High and Industrial school tonight at 7:30 o'clock. John W. Lawton will preside. The program will consist of a medley of patriotic songs sung by the Statesboro High school chorus and the Bulloch county chorale group; a literary selection, "I, Too, Sing America," by W. J. Holliday; the national anthem sung by the audience, led by Julia P. Bryant, and a motion picture, "Land of the Free," presented by County Agent Byron Dyer. Opening prayer will be made by L. S. Wingfield, notations by A. O. Holmes and announcements by M. L. Burton.

NEVILLS JUNIOR SENIOR PICNIC HELD AT YELLOW BLUFF

The junior class of Nevills school entertained the seniors with a picnic at Yellow Bluff on Saturday, May 3. Points of interest were visited along the way—one of them being the Ford shop, school, club house, home, etc., at Richmond Hill. A beautiful lunch was spread at noon time by the juniors, most of which had been prepared by them in the home economics department. Others going besides the two classes were Mr. and Mrs. Robert Young, Mr. and Mrs. W. M. Adams, Miss Sarah Hodges and Miss Margaret Matthews.

Young Junior Leagues from Detroit's Suburban Gross Pointe section, members of the newly-organized Motor Corps of the American Red Cross, learning from F. L. Sage, Chief Truck Engineer, Chrysler Corporation, the inner workings of the engine in a Dodge Army ambulance. Left to right: Betty Brodhead, Katherine Byfield and Mr. Sage. Expert drivers of all kinds of vehicles now being used in Red Cross work, these young ladies are taking an extensive course in motor vehicle mechanics. In the event of a national emergency, thousands of these Motor Corps girls all over the country will "man" the cars and trucks needed in commerce, industry and agriculture.

Brooklet Grads Begin Exercises Friday Night

(Special to The Herald.)
BROOKLET, Ga.—The closing exercises of the Brooklet High school will begin Friday night at 8:30 when Mrs. W. D. Lee will present her violin and piano pupils in a spring recital. Sunday morning in the high school auditorium at 11:30, Rev. T. Sparrow, of the Central Christian church, of Savannah, will deliver the baccalaureate sermon. At this service special music will be rendered by the members of the senior class. Monday night, the 26th, at 8:30, the graduation exercises will be held in the auditorium. The members of the seventh grade will receive their certificates into high school. Howard Harrison, the president of the senior class, will speak to represent the class. The literary address will be made by W. B. Scott, clerk of the superior court of Chatham county. The members of the high school diplomas are as follows: Thomas Bryan, J. A. Minick, Jr., Guy Minick, Kenneth Clifton, Harry Ray Baird, W. F. Brannen, Harley Shaw, John Waters, James Waters, James Brown, Howard Harrison, Watson Frayley, Virgil McElveen, Gordon Beasley, Calhoun Knight, Robin Proctor, Bernard DeNitto, Frances Tucker, Orlan M. Brannen, Kathryn Fordham, Louise Joiner, Louise Bland, Helen McElveen, Margaret Barnes, Sara Lee, Hilda Bennett, Doris Olliff, Doris Proctor, Nita Atkins, Juanita Wyatt, Romie Lee Thompson, Doris Thompson, Christine Grooms, Eunice Campbell, Myrtice Beasley, Janelle Wilson and Marion Bule.

214th Coast Artillery To Spend Night Here May 28

Wednesday afternoon about 4 o'clock the 214th Coast Artillery, anti-aircraft, will move in on Statesboro and put up here for one night. In training on moving by convoy 1,200 officers and men will leave Camp Stewart in about 150 vehicles Wednesday morning and after moving thru Ludowici, Glennville, Reidsville, Lyons and Swainsboro, come to Statesboro for the night. It is announced that arrangements are being made for the group to camp on the college property located across the highway from Cecil's, where the old college football field was located. Arrangements have been made for the city to pipe water to the camp for the time it will be here. This training follows a similar trip recently made to Waycross and Ferdinand, Fla. The movement includes eleven kitchen units mounted on trucks. This is Statesboro's and Bulloch county's home unit and it is expected that the community will welcome them with open arms. The convoy will be in charge of Lieut.-Col. Phil Brewster, in command of the 214th. Maj. James B. Averitt, of Statesboro, was here the first part of the week and worked out arrangements with a local committee and city officials for the group to camp here. A tentative program was also arranged for the benefit of the citizens of Statesboro and Bulloch county including a retreat parade at 5:30, a band concert from 8 to 9 o'clock and a searchlight drill from 9:30 to 10 o'clock, all to take place on the camp area. Maj. Averitt pointed out that the movement is subject to cancellation in the event of more important orders from higher authority. When asked why, he told Mr. Marshall that he had gone rabbit hunting and in getting over a log his gun had gone off and blew him in his toes off.

Onions May Not Always Be A Cause for Tears

Onions may not always be a cause for tears, but a reason for much rejoicing. Last spring Herman Nesmith and Ralph Arnett planted four acres of white and yellow onions on near West Side. Onions are selling for around $2 to $2.25 per bag. Mr. Nesmith explained that he used a ton of truck fertilizer per acre which together with the cost of the plants and labor makes onions pretty expensive to raise. But it still compares favorably with the income from an acre of tobacco in the best of tobacco years.

BULLOCH PEANUTS NOW MOVING TO OIL MILLS

Bulloch's peanut crop is now going to the mill. These huge trucks have been seeing on the streets during the past week are trucks from the various out-of-state mills loaded with Bulloch county peanuts. More than 2,500,000 pounds of peanuts will be moved from the P. F. A. Peanut association warehouse here in Statesboro. According to Dew Grover and Homer C. Payne, warehousemen for the government agency, G. F. A., these peanuts will be crushed at the mills and converted into oil.

Big City Paper Sends Reporter To Write Story on Bulloch

The New York Herald-Tribune sent a reporter, Miss Dorothy Duca, to Bulloch county last week to make a personal study of the diversified system of farming now being carried on. Upon arrival Miss Duca stated she wanted to talk with a farm family that had proven that it was possible to make a living in the South without depending too much on cotton or tobacco. After reviewing the records of several outstanding Bulloch county farmers, Miss Duca selected J. A. Bunc's farming operations to study and his family to interview. Although the reporter knew very little about Southern agriculture and the local systems of farming, she spent several hours with Mr. and Mrs. Bunc and family. Every phase of the system of farming found on this farm was thoroughly studied by this reporter. Several weeks ago Miss Duca asked about the type of farming found in this section and stated her paper wanted first-hand information on this diversified system. Miss Duca indicated she had charge of the federal bureau of investigation, from Savannah. Mr. Ruggles will come direct to Statesboro from Savannah. It is expected that Mr. Ruggles will tell the local club just how the F.B.I. operates, and how they never give up until their assignment is finished.

Graduation at Portal High Begins Sunday

F. Rupert Parrish, superintendent of the Portal High school, announced this week the commencement program of the 1941 senior class. The program begins with the commencement sermon which will be preached Sunday morning, May 25, and ends with the awarding of diplomas Monday night, May 26. The program Sunday, as announced by Mr. Parrish, is as follows: Processional; invocation by the Rev. Bernard Brown; song, "America the Beautiful," by the congregation; a n o n e u m e n t s; song, "God's Tomorrow," by the senior class; Scripture reading by the Rev. Brown; violin solo, Miss Billy Turner; sermon by the Rev. Bernard Brown; and recessional. The services will begin at 11 o'clock. The program for the graduation exercises Monday night, May 26, will be as follows: Invocation; salutation, Martha Kate Freeman; song by the class of 1941; valedictory, Jack Wynt; introduction of speaker; address, D. B. Turner. The public is cordially invited to attend. No admission.

Mrs McDougald Dies Monday

Funeral services for Mrs. Pamela Klapp McDougald, 75, who died here late Monday, were held yesterday morning at 10:30 in the Primitive Baptist church. The Rev. H. L. Speed, of the Presbyterial church, was in charge. Burial was in East Side cemetery. A native of Lumberville, N. C., Mrs. McDougald moved to this section more than forty years ago. She was the widow of the late J. A. McDougald, widely known planter and naval stores operator. For the past several years, Mrs. McDougald had been confined to her bed with heart disease. Active pallbearers were Fred Fletcher, Charlie Olliff, Sr., Dr. J. H. Whiteside, Dan Lester, Grady C. Johnson, Frank Williams, Ben Deal, George Groover and Wilton Hodges.

HOME DEM. CLUB LEADERS AT TRAINING MEETING

Fifteen Home Demonstration club members attended the leadership training meeting for this district held in Swainsboro last week. These leaders were trained in their subjects including nutrition, gardening, poultry, dairying, marketing, clothing, home improvement, home industries, landscaping and 4-H club work.

Missing Toe No Reason for Draft Deferment

According to Marshall Robertson, secretary to the local Selective Service Board, a toe shot off is not grounds for permanent deferment from army service. Johnnie Hagins, colored, age 30, received his order to report for induction into Uncle Sam's army on April 8, a day or two before that date, Johnnie came hobbling on crutches into Mr. Marshall's office, accompanied by his father, asking if he could not be deferred. When asked why, he told Mr. Marshall that he had gone rabbit hunting and in getting over a log his gun had gone off and blew him in his toes off.

Commencement Program Begins at High School Tonight

Graduation plans for the three graduating classes of the city schools were announced here today by Supt. S. H. Sherman. These include exercises for the Statesboro High school graduating class, the Statesboro Elementary school graduating class, and the graduating class from the Statesboro High and Industrial school (colored).

State's Longest Ballot for June 3

When voters go to the polls Tuesday, June 3, they will mark the longest ballot in the history of the state. The huge ballot which will carry the sixty-nine constitutional amendments to be voted on is so long it will be carried by thirty-nine inches long. There are sixty-nine amendments to be marked "for" or "against." Heading the ballot, the first and second amendments propose to increase the term of future governors for a four-year term for the state superintendent of schools, have the full weight of Gov. Talmadge behind them. Except for four other amendments the entire list is of only local interest. Amendment No. 20 provides for increasing the civil jurisdiction of justices of the peace from $100 to $200. Amendment No. 21 will provide for counties to contract for hospitalization. Amendment No. 66 provides for advertising and promoting the agricultural, industrial, historic, recreational and natural resources, facilities and assets of the state. Amendment number of sixty-nine provides that the legislature to hold annual fifty-day sessions. Ordinary J. E. McCracken has a copy of the official state ballot to hold annual fifty-day sessions. The election June 3 for the county.

Farmers to Learn Use of Cotton Stamps

The details of how to use the cotton stamps and why they are being issued will be discussed at the farm bureau meeting Friday, May 23, in the court house at 8 p.m. Fred G. Blitch, president, announced. Harry A. Aspinwall, surplus marketing administration representative for this section, has been preparing the cotton stamps for the next meeting of the organization. The AAA office is now checking performance and will start submitting applications for stamps for payment and stamps. The farm bureau wants to make it possible for every farmer and merchant in the county to thoroughly understand how the stamps may be used just as money, so long as they are used to purchase certain commodities. Every farmer participating in the voluntary reduction program on cotton is urged to attend the meeting Friday. Two educational pictures, "Boulder Dam" and "The Caravan of Progress," will be part of the program.

INDUSTRIAL SCHOOL Graduation Exercises—Friday, May 23, at 8:30 p.m., school auditorium.

A Sentence Sermon

He is a strong man who can hold down his opinion. A man cannot utter two or three sentences without disclosing to intelligent ears precisely where he stands in life and thought, namely, whether in the kingdom of the senses and the understanding, or in that of ideas and imagination, the realm of intuitions and duty.
Emerson.

I Am An American

PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT, in spite of the pressure of his office, took time out to issue a proclamation designating the third Sunday in May as "I Am An American Day."

The President urged that that day be observed as a public occasion in recognition of our citizens who have attained their majority or who have been naturalized within the past year.

Becoming 21 years of age has always been an ac-casion for celebration in the lives of young people and now it takes on additional significance. For by coming of age a boy or a girl attains the full rights of citizenship.

"I Am An American." No other words can mean as much as these today or any other time! It means all that is good of the better things in the world and an opportunity for everyone to have things that make living better and more worthwhile.

Given the choice of nations in which to live, which would you choose?

Your answer would be... "There's no choice—I would take America, of course." It is based on your love for this big country, with its vast resources, its opportunities, its country, its cities, its people, its government "of the people, by the people and for the people."

With Daniel Webster you would say, "I was born an American; I live an American; I shall die an American."

A Worthy Enterprise

SATURDAY MORNINGS at the Armory now brings the farm women of Bulloch County and the housewives of Statesboro together over a bunch of fresh vegetables, or a freshly baked cake, or a jar of strawberry preserves for which the city housewife pays the farm woman a fair price which the farm woman in turn pays the local merchant for her sugar, her new dress or bottle of perfume.
The Woman's Exchange is a worthwhile enterprise—one that is carried on by the people that live right in Bulloch County, and as such deserves the loyal support of every citizen.

There are many of us who have failed to take advantage of the Exchange. Why not take time off Saturday morning and see for yourself the many things they are offering?

Vote June 3

ON TUESDAY, JUNE 3, Bulloch County, together with the rest of the counties of Georgia, will vote on thirty-nine-inch ballots for or against sixty-nine constitutional amendments.

Of the sixty-nine to be voted on only six are of general statewide interest. These are the election of governor and constitutional officers for four-year terms; to provide for annual sessions of the legislature; to permit the State to advertise; to increase the jurisdiction of justices of the peace from $100 to $200; exempt rural electrification corporations from all taxation, and permitting cities to contract for hospitalization facilities.

Over the first amendment, changing the terms of the Governor and all other state house officers from two to four years, there is a wide difference of opinion. We feel, with a great many others, that such a proposal has many virtues to commend it.

It would enable the Governor to give four years of attention to his job. He would not be forced to run a race for the office after being in just one year. It would free him from the political obligations which now plague him and make him a less efficient public servant.

The second amendment would set up an annual session of the legislature and would entail additional expenses on an already overburdened state.

The other four of the first six seem to meet with the general approval of the people of the state. All the others are purely local in nature. There is still time to think on these issues and vote your conviction on June 3.

Newspaper Advertising

NEWSPAPER ADVERTISING was declared to be the most effective form of advertising, in a recent survey conducted in Louisville, Kentucky. Setting out to "grade" the different forms of advertising, Yeager and White, public accountants, went directly to the consumers with two questions: (1) What kind of advertising influences you most in your buying? and (2) which of the various types of advertising do you find most objectionable? The answers:

1. Theater screen advertising is the poorest kind of all.

2. Billboards and circulars are next poorest in rank.

3. Radio and direct-mail are next in line.

4. Newspaper advertising was declared to be the most effective to the general public.

5. The survey found no direct sales resistance to newspaper advertising; newspaper advertising sold more than all other mediums combined.

6. Newspapers sell 56 per cent. of all goods sold by advertising; all other mediums sell 44 per cent.

7. Sixty-five out of every 100 women buy from newspaper advertising; 51 out of every 100 men are influenced the same way.

8. Two out of every 100 women buy from circulars, while 10 out of every 100 object to circulars.
One out of every 100 men buy from circulars and 10 object.

9. Thirty of every 100 women object to billboards and 42 out of every 100 object to theater screen.

CONGRATULATIONS to Allen R. Lanier, Noyce Edenfield and Ben Hughes, members of the Bul-loch County Board of Registrars, on the fine job they did on revising the county voters' list. In four days they complete a job that had heretofore taken some years as much as a month. The total cost to the county this year was $60.00.

The Dupe of Douglas Is Drafted

I finally got my questionnaire.
It came in the morning mail.
I guess I'd better fill it out Or I might land in jail.

First they wanted to know my name.
That to me seemed dumb;
If they hadn't known that;
The letter couldn't have come.

Then they said, how are you built?
I thought, no had, by heck, After reading my description, I really am a wreck.

Do I live in an institution?
Did I get an education?
Did I take some higher learning?
How about my occupation?

I told them I was a salesman.
Just how much I earned,
Of other things I like to do,
And for what my heart did yearn.

They asked, just what else can you do?
And what else what you done?
Have you ever lived on a farm?
Or isn't that haysed, son?

Then came what I'd been dreading.
They asked, was I single?
And there I was without a wife, But at least my pockets did jingle.

Then came a lot of questions, That I did pass in haste, In regard to my dependents, That space I had to waste.

If I had studied for the ministry After grammar school graduation I could have answered the next list Without any consultation.

I also claimed my citizenship.
And the date on which I was born, I even told them my birthplace, Twice on a bright and frosty morn.

I'm not a conscientious objector,
And I don't care for a rat.
Since I have no criminal record I go through life with a smile.

Next, they asked about service.
What branch, where, when and how,
I answered I'd never seen a war, But I'm not far from it now.

What class do I belong in?
Of course, they didn't insist, I couldn't answer such a question,
And have thus evaded a fine.

I finally reached the conclusion,
And I signed my name on the line.
I now belong to Uncle Sam
And have thus evaded a fine.

FIGHTING THAT FIFTH COLUMN

The Fifth Column which haunts all newspaper men and is the bane of their existence slipped into our office last week and had his say. E. Gay's seventy-nine cents at a $1 per pound. We have suspected our typesetting machine for a long time of subversive activities but heretofore its activities had been confined to little an-noyances in our paper like misspelling simple words which made as look kind of silly. But it came out in the open last week and exposed itself in its true light. Reporting the cattle market at a dollar a pound! Attempting to create in the minds of our farmers a sense of impending prosperity. Our only defense against such an activity on the part of our machine is to publish the true facts and suffer whatever wrath it may

BIG AS ALL OUTDOORS

Everybody knows that all outdoors is pretty big. The ballot for the June 3 general election is as big as all outdoors. It measures 17 inches wide by 39 inches long.
It carries 69 places for "NO" and 69 places for "YES".

One day LAST week we saw a grown man go in the Bulloch Drug store barefooted as the boy with chucks of fan. We went home and took off our shoes and walked down to the creek with "Sunny", our police pup. The doctor told us that we ain't got any more sense than the day we were born.

LIVING IN THE country has certain disadvantages that the country gentleman don't talk about. For instance, the party line telephone that begins ringing about sun-up and continues thereafter until the sove gets hot.

CLERK OF SUPERIOR COURT

One of the most important elective officers of the county government is that of the Clerk of Superior Court. Elected every four years by popular vote, the clerk takes an oath to truly and faithfully enter and record all the orders, decrees, judgments and other proceedings of the superior court and to faithfully and impartially discharge all the duties required of him. He has the right to appoint deputy clerks to assist him and he must give bond in the sum of $3,000. He can require a bond of a deputy clerk.

An interesting sidelight of the law concerning the persons who may hold this office is that no lawyer engaged in active practice lawyer engaged in active practice may hold the office of clerk of court. An attorney could give up his practice and run for the job, and if elected, hold it, but unless he does give up his practice he would be disqualified for the position.

In case of a vacancy in the office the ordinary shall give notice to the public newspaper of the county and at the court house for three or more of the most public places of the county twenty days before the date of the election which shall be called by the ordinary. The person elected shall hold office for the unexpired term of the clerk.

If in some sudden emergency there is a vacancy and it is not immediately supplied, the ordinary shall act as clerk of the superior court. If a vacancy occurs within six months of the end of a term of office, the person appointed to act shall discharge the duties of the clerk for the balance of the term and there shall be no special election. If there is a vacancy in the office at a time when court is in session, the presiding judge shall appoint a clerk who shall hold office during the time court is in session and for ten days thereafter. If by the expiration of that time there is no one else to act as clerk the appointee may continue to act as clerk until there is an election to fill the office.

The duties of the clerk are many and varied and involves a mass of office and paper work.
Among the requirements which he must fulfill are the following:

(1) He must keep his office and all things pertaining thereto at the county site and at the court house, by special permission of the ordinary, they may be kept at some other designated place not more than one mile from the court house. Public notice must be given in the event of a move of this nature.

(2) He must attend all sessions of the courts and keep fair and regular minutes of the proceedings from day to day including a transcript of the judge's entry on his docket when not more fully shown in a book kept for that purpose.

(3) He issues and signs every summons, subpoena, writ, execution, process or order or other paper under authority of the court.
(4) He keeps in his office, in vacation, or in court during term time, the following dockets and books:

(1) An issue docket, on which shall be placed all civil cases pending in his office at the time of trial or to be tried by a jury is made or is likely to be made.

(2) A motion docket on which shall be placed only those motions which are to be decided by the judge without the aid of a jury.
All civil cases pending in the superior court shall be entered on one of the two above-named dockets, and in all cases shall stand for trial in the order in which they came into court.

(3) Two subpoena dockets; one for civil, and the other for criminal cases.

(4) An execution docket on which shall be placed the names of the parties and their attorneys.

(5) A general execution docket on which shall be placed all executions and which shall be independent of the others.

(6) A trial docket for criminal cases showing the name of the defendant, the name of the prosecutor, the name of the judge, the character of each case in the order in which they were returned to court.

(7) A docket of criminal cases to be known as the "dead" docket. (8) Duplicates of the issue and motion dockets for the use of the bar.

(9) Well bound books for recording all deeds, mortgages, and other liens and bills of sale separately.

(10) An attachment docket in connection with general execution docket.

(11) A filing docket, which shall show day and hour of filing of

More Caloric Counting Is Futile As A Means Of Reducing Weight

Counting calories as a means of reducing weight is futile and may be dangerous unless accompanied by a knowledge of the ingredients and constituents in the foods consumed. Annalia Lautz, Ph.D., Chicago, advises in the April issue of Hyla, The Health Magazine. Her article outlines a healthful and effective guide to weight reducing.
The author warns that disastrous physical and nervous conditions may result from weight reduction, especially from rapid reduction. To prevent such results, she advises that one who wishes to reduce should have: (1) a thorough medical examination, (2) a daily diet rich in all food constituents, except energy, (3) a food intake in which the energy value or calories total less than those consumed, (4) a check on the actual calories secured, by intelligent weighing and (5) examination by a physician after weight has been lost to determine the physical and nervous effects of reduction and the advisability of its continuance.

"Because the total amount of food (in the diet) must be limited in energy," Dr. Lautz declares, "a special effort to make the diet nutritionally adequate otherwise is necessary. Mineral and vitamins commonly deficient and other substances must be fully supplied. In order to remain healthy, the body must receive a fully quota of complete protein, calcium, phosphorus, iron, iodine, vitamin A, carotene, B vitamins including thiamine, nicotinic acid and riboflavin, and vitamins C and D, which are frequently found low in the American diet."

To insure this quota, Dr. Lautz recommends that the following foods be included in the diet each day:

"Two or three servings of lean meat and eggs... two servings of raw non-starchy fruit... as many green leafy vegetables... for vitamin A... and other non-starchy vegetables as can be consumed... two glasses of whole milk... not more than 3 teaspoons of restaurant serving of butter... or 3 tablespoons of this cream... iodized table salt for iodine, if not living near the sea."

"About 1,200 to 1,600 calories a day are provided by the foods listed. If taken in their natural state, they will be cooked, baked, steamed, broiled, or roasted, without the addition of fats, oils, sugar, or other high-calorie foods." The author advises that tea with lemon, black coffee without sugar, or thin, clear, fat-free soups may be used in any quantity desired. Vinegar and seasonings add palatability without increasing calories, although salt may increase the weight temporarily due to the fact that it helps retain water in the body. She warns against the use of "nonfattened" salad dressings which contain oil because of the laxative quality of the oil which dissolves fat soluble vitamins such as A and D and carries them out of the body without absorption or utilization.

Fats and oils, sugars and syrups, dry foods in general and starchy foods are to be avoided in dieting because these are concentrated sources of food energy, high in calories and fattening.

"The average amount of energy required by a man doing physically inactive work without exercise," Dr. Lautz says, "is about 2,400 calories a day; a sedentary woman needs about 2,100 calories for the same length of time. Food furnishing few calories than the amount expended by the body will decrease the body weight. However, the actual energy output of each person varies greatly."

The writer enumerates the various factors that determine the energy output of each person. She names physical activity as one important source of energy, the burning of body substances. Tenseness, she asserts, is another energy expend-ing factor. In a relaxed manner increases the energy output and consequently the calories required from food to keep weight constant.

The author contends that the amount of food each person must eat habitually to keep his weight constant is to be marked without exercise. The weight is most effectively indicated by weighing oneself at sufficiently long intervals on the same accurate scales.
Weighing should take place at the same time of day and with the same relation to meals to obtain accurate results. Gradual weight loss is, according to the author, usually the best procedure.

To achieve good results in weight reduction," Dr. Lautz concludes, "eat first the essential basic foods which will furnish you with the minerals, vitamins, and other food substances you need.
Avoid fatty, sweet, dry and starchy foods in the amount given.
Then find the amount of these high energy foods you need by what you weigh, and thus let the scales check your calories."

Hotel General Oglesboro Joins DeSoto Chain

A total of three outstanding Southern hotels were brought under one management recently when announcement was made by R. P. Pound, of the purchase of the Hotel General Oglesboro, on Wilmington Island, Savannah.

Charles G. Day, vice-president and general manager of the Savannah properties, now has under his supervision, the Hotel DeSoto, the DeSoto Beach hotel, built last year and greatly enlarged this year and now the Hotel General Oglesboro, constructed a few years ago at a cost of approximately $1,900,000.

The acquisition of the new hotel property gives the DeSoto chain a total of more than 600 rooms, capable of taking care of a minimum of 1,000 people, which is considered a happy denouement for tourists and convention purposes. It will be practically impossible now to bring any body of volume of visitors to Savannah and not be able to accommodate them, as inter-locking guest arrangements will prevail and buses are expected to be operated at frequent intervals between the three hotels.

Coincident with Mr. Day's enlarged responsibilities, he was elected on May 2 as president of the Georgia Hotel association at its Atlanta meeting.

RIGHT FERTILIZER APPLICATION METHODS BOOSTS CROP YIELDS

Just as a good cook can take the same raw food as a poor cook and make it go farther and taste better by using the right utensils and proper methods of preparation, so can a careful farmer make the same amount of plant food in the soil taste better to the plants and bring a higher return in increased yield by proper application.
